MAY-18-2000 10:20

Attorney Docket:: 1182P/P150

- executing the directed image capture sequence in the hand-held digital camera to b) display interactive instructions on the integrated display that prompt the user to perform a first operation; and
- in response to the user performing the [the] first operation, automatically updating c) the interactive instructions to prompt the user to perform a second operation, thereby guiding the user through a series of related image captures, while minimizing the number of key sequences the user must memorize in order to perform the operations.
- (Once Amended) A method for controlling user interaction in a hand-held digital 14 camera having an integrated display, the method comprising the steps of:
 - providing the hand-held digital camera with a directed image capture sequence d) comprising a set of program instructions for guiding a user through a series of related image captures;
 - executing the directed image capture sequence in the hand-held digital camera e) such that a first interactive instruction is displayed on the integrated display prompting the user to capture a first image; [and]
 - f) waiting for the user to capture the first image;
 - in response to the user capturing the first image, displaying a second interactive g) instruction prompting the user to capture a second image; and
 - h) storing the images as a related group of images.